

Benjamin Feutz retired from the United States Navy in 1993.

He completed a Bachelor of Business Administration with a concentration in Accounting at Kent State University in 2003, and a Master of Taxation from The University of Akron in 2007.

Ben is currently employed by the IRS in the Small Business/Small Enterprise Division. He is also an adjunct professor for Kent State University, Tuscarawas Regional Campus, in their Accounting program.

He has been married to his wife, Fae, for 17 years, and he is active in the Boy Scouts of America, and the Institute of Management Accountants, where he is currently the treasurer for the Mid Eastern Ohio Chapter and is a past president.